ANCC Standards for Integrity and Independence in Accredited Continuing Education

The American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation (ANCC-COA) adopted the *Standards for Integrity and Independence in Accredited Continuing Education and acknowledges that many healthcare professionals have financial relationships with ineligible companies. ANCC defines ineligible organizations as those whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients. These relationships must not be allowed to influence accredited continuing education.

*Standards for Integrity and Independence in Accredited Continuing Education | ACCME)

Before the planning for the education begins, the accredited provider must collect information from all individuals associated with the planning and implementation of an educational activity, including, but not limited to, the planning committee, faculty, presenters, authors, content experts and content reviewers, to provide information about all their financial relationships with ineligible companies within the prior 24 months. This disclosure must include: the name of the ineligible company, the nature of the financial relationship.

Examples of financial relationships include employees, researcher, consultant, advisor, speaker, independent contractor, royalties or patent beneficiary, executive role, and ownership interest. Individual stocks and stock options should be disclosed; diversified mutual funds do not need to be disclosed. Owners or employees of ineligible companies must be excluded from controlling content or participating as planners or faculty in accredited education, unless:

- The content is not related to the business line or product.
- The content is limited to basic science research, and they do not make care recommendations.
- They are participating as technicians to teach safe and proper use of medical devices and do not recommend whether or when a device is used.

Abstract submission: Abstracts must be submitted via the abstract management system by the requested deadline.
